Ski season ends; local areas do record-breaking business

Sunday River ends season with free ski

Sunday River Ski Resort closed its most successful season ever with a free day of skiing, Monday, April 20. The sun was out and the temperature was 77 degrees, according to marketing director Wendy Gray.

Sunday River was open 160 days during the 1986-87 season, repeating its 1985-86 record for Maine's longest ski season.

Sunday River recorded a 60 percent increase in skier visits above its record-breaking '85-'86 season. Ski-related gross revenues were up 93 percent, skiway officials said, including sales increases in Crisp's Ski Shop, cafeteria and restaurant services.

Statistics show that all areas of the resort saw an increase in business. Reservations for the one-slope condominiums were up 65 percent, while the ski school taught 7,050 people to ski in Sunday River's Guaranteed Learn-to-Ski-In-One-Day program.

Sunday River Skiway Corp. President Les Otten attributed the increased level of business to the fact that Sunday River offers the greatest variety of skiing terrain in Maine or New Hampshire, plus the area's commitment to providing the best possible ski conditions through dependable snowmaking and snowgrooming. Snowmaking crews made over 40,000 tons of snow, while the

Mt. Abram regulars increase 75 percent

The best news at Mt. Abram was that season pass holders increased by a whopping 75 percent. Spokeswoman Jean Anton credited the large increase to the realization by Mt. Abram regulars that the Locke Mills skiway could reliably keep its slopes covered with man-made snow. (This was the second season of snowmaking at Mt. Abram Ski Slopes.)

Mt. Abram recorded 119 days of operation this past season, from Dec. 10, 1986 to March 29, 1987—just before the flood hit.

Ms. Anton said the skiway made snow continually from Nov. 15 to Jan. 6. Combined with 121 inches of natural snow over the course of the winter, the slopes were kept in excellent shape until the warm, rainy weather that began in late March and culminated in the April 1 flood.

The number of skiers at Mt. Abram increased 25 percent this past season—from 45,000 in 1985-86 to 55,800 in 1986-87, Ms. Anton said.

Piston Bully grooming fleet traveled 34,290 miles grooming the trails. That is the equivalent of five round-trips from Portland, Maine, to Portland, Ore., Mr. Otten pointed out.

For the 1987-88 season, the resort will offer two quad, four triple and two double chairlifts, one T-bar, 50 trails, 275 acres of snowmaking terrain and a fleet of eight Piston Bully grooming vehicles. With the increase in uphill lift capacity, Sunday River will continue to guarantee lift lines will average less than eight minutes over the course of the skiing day.

SAD 44 budget approved in half hour session

Meeting in the auditorium at Toluca Regional High School last Wednesday evening, 120 SAD #44 voters took just a half hour to act on warrant articles at the annual district budget meeting, a far cry from the five-hour budget-cutting marathon of a year ago.

No opposition was apparent as the articles concerning operation of the district for the July 1, 1987-June 30, 1988 fiscal period were approved as swiftly as Moderator Bill Cousins could call them up for action. The only opposition during the session occurred during the voting on the Northern Oxford Vocational Area (NOVA) budget of $88,407 which was approved by a 111-8 margin. SAD #44 assessed an amount of $60,392 as its share of the NOVA budget. Six of the negative votes came from members of the SAD #44 board. (There long has been considerable sentiment within SAD #44 that the local share of the NOVA is too high considering the number of students from SAD #44 enrolled in the vocational programs.)

Receiving voter approval also was a gross budget of $72,330 for SAD #44 adult and community education for the next fiscal year. The local share of the expense of adult education will be $25,330. A NOVA adult education budget of

The general fund gross budget of $4,466,265 approved last week for fiscal year 1987 represents an 18.4 percent increase over the comparable figure for the current fiscal period. However, the net amount of $1,851,186 (to be assessed to the district's member towns) reflects a 5.7 percent increase over the current year.

Also, to be added to the net general fund budget is the local share ($25,330) of the expense of adult and community education. With this added, the amount to be assessed to the towns is $1,876,516, a 5.5 percent increase over the current year.

DEP vetoes tie-in of Inn condos to Bethel sewer

Saying the Bethel sewer plant is not in compliance with its state discharge permit, the state Department of Environmental Protection has denied permission for The Bethel Inn to tie-in its projected condominiums to the municipal sewer system.

DEP staffer Jim Tibbets explained, "The problem is a Board of Environmental Protection policy that doesn't allow additional wastewater loading in a system that doesn't meet its discharge license. They don't want to add a plant that is having an operations and maintenance problem."

The problem is numerous and result in untreated or poorly treated sewage being

Newry planners OK sewer plant

By a 5-0 vote, the Newry Planning Board last Friday night approved the site plan for the sewer plant to be constructed by Sunday River Skiway Corp. at the ski resort.

The sewer plant, to be constructed near D.W. McKee's—which will also be the site for the new 35-unit Brookside Condominium—has a rated peak output of 365,000 gallons per day. The discharge permit—to discharge the treated effluent into the Androscoggin River—was approved two weeks ago by the state Board of Environmental Protection. (See April 15 issue for details.)

The vote by the Planning Board came directly after a nearly two-hour public

The Bethel Board of Selectmen Monday night signed a contract hiring James Haskell, of Franklin, to act as a consultant for the selectmen and the Planning Board in their review of the draft site plan review ordinance. The draft was produced by the Ordinance Review Committee appointed by the selectmen early this year. (The Planning Board has been discussing it the past few weeks and will meet again tomorrow evening (Thursday), at 5 p.m., at Toluca, to continue deliberations on the draft.)

Opinions

Ski season was a winner

As the skiways go so goes winter tourism in the Bethel area. The skiways did great this past season, and so did the inns, the bed and breakfast establishments, the restaurants, gas stations, real estate agents, and stores on Main Street, Bethel. One restaurateur said he had to turn away 20 potential diners every Saturday night—so thick were the visitors. (Even the local newspaper sold a few extra copies to people wanting to find out about the local community and to find out what property was for sale.)

While there is much that can be said against having hordes of tourists come to town, there is also much good that can be said about this growing local industry. On the good side: the industry is rather non-polluting, it provides good jobs (both seasonal and permanent), it demands little in the way of infrastructure or town services.

On the negative side:

- The condo-building boom that is accompanying the skiing boom presents new problems that local communities are not yet equipped to handle. This is causing scrambling among area planning boards, but the problems should not be insurmountable.

- Massachusetts drivers are the most discourteous drivers in the country and their poor driving habits seem likely to rub off on local drivers.

- The rapid influx of out-of-state money is causing prices (especially of real estate) to go up much faster than local salaries.

The 1986-87 ski season will go down as the best in history. There was great snow; there were record-breaking numbers of skiers; there was no January thaw; there was lots of snowmaking; there was great skiing. The owners and employees of Mt. Abram Ski Slopes and Sunday River Ski Resort are to be congratulated for providing a great skiing experience to hundreds of thousands of skiers—an experience that kept them coming back for more.

A note from the publisher

A couple of months ago we ran a questionnaire coupon in the paper, and I asked readers to fill out the questionnaire and send it in, telling us what they liked and didn't like about The Citizen.

The last returned questionnaire arrived in the office a few weeks ago. All told, we received an even 50 responses; and if they told us anything at all, they told us that people have quite different likes and dislikes when it comes to their local newspaper.

For example, some people said they particularly like the TV listings in the paper. Some said we should have expanded listings covering the entire day rather than just prime time. But some said they wished we didn't take up space in the paper with the TV listings. (I have noticed that the Lewiston Sunday paper now lists the Bethel Cablevision listings. Since we began carrying the listings only because no one else was doing so, we would be happy to discontinue them. We readers are happy with the listings in the Lewiston paper. I'm open to suggestions on this.)

Some said we should have more sports news and sports photos, while others said we have too much sports already. Some said they appreciated the editorials and opinion columns, while others said they'd just as soon we kept our opinions to ourselves.

Some respondents said the reporting in the paper was very good, while others (two, actually) said the reporting was all lies and inaccuracies.

The one thing everyone seemed to agree on is that they like the local items and would like to have more news from local correspondents. There were a number of complaints that some local correspondents always seem to get the same names in their columns. The respondents all seemed to want more names in the news of their communities. A number of our correspondents have told me that they try to get more names into their columns, but too often people do not want to provide local news to the correspondent. That seems like a stalemate, and I don't know that we can break through it. But certainly the message is clear, that our correspondents are the heart of The Citizen. Some people suggested that we have more of these columns from other communities. We would be most happy to if interested writers will step forward. (Readers may have noticed that Laurie Bergeron has begun doing an EBS/CPS column, which will hopefully satisfy those who said we should have more school news.)

One of the questions on the questionnaire asked how many people read the same copy of The Citizen. We sell 2,800 copies of the paper weekly, and I generally figure that our actual readership is twice that number. But I was unprepared for the reading habits of some households. One respondent reported 10 people reading the same copy of the paper. Another respondent reported 1½ persons reading the paper at that house. While someone else said the number of readers could not be accurately calculated because the paper passed from one house to another.

Some respondents all had something useful to say about how well or how poorly we're doing our job of keeping the community informed of what's going on. I'd like to quote extensively from the comments:

A reader in Locke Mills said we should have articles on places to visit for a day trip within an hour or two of home.

"Photos of local people and events are much appreciated," one respondent said. Another reader said he or she likes to read about new stores opening. Another said the paper should have more Christian columns.

"My favorite reading each week is found in the integrity and beauty of Colista Morgan's column," said one reader—and many echoed the same sentiment. (Readers may be interested to know that we are working with Mrs. Morgan to publish a collection of her columns. This is a lengthy task and no publication date has been set yet.)

"I read every bit of it every week and look forward to it. Very important part of my week," said one respondent. The paper should have more news on the local economy, a Bethel reader suggested. Another Bethel reader suggested we pay more attention to junior varsity teams. This reader also wanted more columns by Editor John Brown, a column each week of Telstar news, and would like also to see a puzzle or question and answer game.

A reader in Albany said he or she especially wanted to be kept informed about nuclear power issues. But another reader said state and national issues should be left out of the local paper. This reader also said we should like to see the price of cards of thanks were lower. "Maybe some of the town correspondents could spend less time on their immediate families and more on what other people are doing," complained one respondent. "Exceptionally good editorials—timely subjects, well written," said one reader. But another said he or she didn't like the syndicated editorials or columns we occasionally use.

Marjorie F. Cummings, who now lives in Florida, took the trouble to write a little additional note. She said: "I am one of my earliest members of my father, William L. Farwell, going to the Village once a week in the winter and doing grocery shopping and getting the mail. He took a weekly Lewiston paper and the Bethel paper, which he had with him from time to time. As his large family grew up and married, he would give the paper to her or him for Christmas. On his death, my mother continued to do it. Since her death, I have always subscribed to it. I will be 90 next month, so you can see it has been quite a span of years. I have checked the thing I like the least—the smaller print. It is getting hard on the eyes as we grow older."

"Someone should cover Middle Intervale," one reader suggested. A Bethel reader wanted more bargain offers for classified ads [1 line, 1 week, 1 buck]. This reader did not want to see accident or crime reporting in the paper and less church news. However, this reader suggested, the paper should have more weather stories. And speaking of weather, one reader wanted to see a regular "weather report," meaning (I believe) an account of what has happened weather-wise during the week, as is done by The Maine Times.

One long-time reader wanted to see once again in the paper the column "From our files." Another reader said, "I look forward to Thursday's mail because of The Bethel Citizen. My only complaint is that Ethel Bisbee and Crescent Park are not represented at all." A Bethel reader wants fewer photos from Agnes Gray School. In West Paris, and also fewer scenic photos. The paper should have more Bethel school and preschool photos, this reader suggested. Speaking of photos, one reader wanted no more photos of dead deer—"No more

Disaster application centers complete week-toll-free hotline available

Disaster Application Centers (DACs) have closed in many counties across Maine, after registering some 1,700 persons for aid programs. The Lewiston application center registered 267 persons in three days of operation, the Gardiner DAC registered 226 in two days of operation, and in two days, the Skowhegan DAC registered 269. The Mexico application center registered 281 persons over three days while, in four days of operation, the Old Town DAC registered 200 disaster applicants. In Winslow, 186 persons were registered during a two-day period.

Federal and state disaster recovery officials said that the number of persons who were estimated to need aid seems to match the number of persons applying for aid. They also expressed concern that there may be others who, for whatever reason, may not have visited an application center. They urged anyone who was not able to visit an application center to call the toll-free hotline at 1-800-225-5654.

Disaster officials are also concerned that there may be persons who did not visit one of the Disaster Application Centers but mistakenly believe that they have registered for aid. Officials said that immediately following the flooding, people were asked by a state or local emergency services official to estimate their damage by filling out a one page form. "That form does not register a flood victim for aid," said Dave Brown, the coordinating officer for the state of Maine. They should utilize the toll-free hotline to learn how to file an application, he said.

glorification of animal slaughter," is the way this reader phrased it. A West Paris reader singled out news of Agnes Gray School as the best part of the paper. A long-time reader in Delaware was very enthusiastic about the paper. "The print, photography and content are first-rate for such a small-town paper. . . This paper brings Maine a little closer. Keep up the good work." On the other hand, a Bethel reader said the paper has been doing a disservice to Bethel and to people it reports on. In particular, "The tourism" supplements have caused Bethel to become a haven for rude Massachusetts people. "Supplements are just awful. I throw them away now without even looking." What this reader does like are the samples of children's writing that occasionally appear in the paper.

Reader Phyllis Dock, of Bethel, is a great fan of the town correspondents. She relishes "rare" plums such as a car nearly hitting a moose in Upton on the driver's way home, and the current bill was reported out of committee with a unanimous "ought to pass" vote. It is now awaiting action by the legislature.

Rep. Mills cautions that accident reports would still be required for deaths of a person, regardless of the amount of property damage sustained.

ECP sign up in progress

The flood during the first part of April caused severe damage in some areas of Oxford County. Farms suffering severe damage may be eligible for assistance under the Emergency Conservation Program (ECP) administered by the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). If the damage:

- Will be so costly to rehabilitate that Federal Assistance is or will be required to return the land to productive agricultural use.
- Is unusual and is not the type that would recur frequently.
- If not treated will impair or endanger the land.

A farmer qualifying for ECP assistance may receive cost-share levels not to exceed 64 percent of the first $63,500 of the eligible cost of restoring the loss. The second $62,500 of the eligible cost of restoring the loss may be cost-shared up to 40 percent and eligible costs above $125,000 may not exceed 20 percent. No producer is eligible for more than $200,000 cost-sharing per natural disaster. The following types of measures may be eligible:

- Removing debris from land.
- Grading, shaping, or releveling severely damaged farmland.
- Restoring permanent fences.
- Restoring conservation structures and other similar installations.

Farmers who feel the damage is sufficiently severe and their capabilities are such that assistance is necessary to correct the problem should contact the county ACS office and request assistance by not later than May 13, 1987, the deadline for filing requests.

Practices should not be started until an "on-site" inspection of the damaged area has been made by the COC or its representative. The COC will review this inspection when considering the request for cost-share assistance.

For more information contact the Oxford County ACS Office, 1 Main Street, South Paris; telephone 743-7010.

DISTRICT 49 REPRESENTATIVE CO-SPONSORS MOTOR-VEHICLE ACCIDENT REPORT BILL

District 49 Representative Jeff Mills (D-Bethel) is sponsoring, with Rep. Joseph May (D-Thomaston), LD 52, an Act regarding Motor Vehicle Accident Reports. This legislation would raise the minimum property damage over which a motor vehicle accident report must be filed from $300 to $500. According to Rep. Mills, the minimum amount was set in the early 1970s at $300, and because of inflation since that time, an accident report is required for even a minimal "fender-bender." Most other states have increased the minimum, and the current bill was reported out of committee with a unanimous "ought to pass" vote. It is now awaiting action by the legislature.

Rep. Mills cautions that accident reports would still be required for deaths of a person, regardless of the amount of property damage sustained.

A Bethel reader complained that there is too much news about the skiway. This reader said, "You need one or more good reporters. Have a 'Person of the Month' column. Recognize people living before they're gone." [An excellent idea I would agree.] A West Bethel reader suggested, "The paper should have more editorials, and a regular column on area history, with pictures." A West Paris reader wants, "a better cable TV listing of programs."

Our readers, quite naturally, pay close attention to the ads we carry. Some comments on these ads included these:

- One Norway reader dislikes the real estate ads. One reader likes the "eggs so fresh" ads. Another likes the ads of Martha's Restaurant. A number of readers said they like reading the classifieds. One reader commented, "About the only complaint with the paper is too many ads on the front page, although I have noticed a change for the better the last few weeks."

If you've gotten to the end of this lengthy column, I trust you have found the various comments interesting, as we have in the office. As I noted at the outset, the one thread that runs through most of the comments we received is that local news from the correspondents is what our readers have come to value. I sincerely hope that readers will work with our correspondents to be able to present more local items from our various communities. And remember, if your community does not have a correspondent and you would like to be one, please give us a call.

A community newspaper, of necessity, has to be all things to all people. It cannot specialize in one aspect of news and disregard others. It is certainly helpful to us here at The Citizen office to know in what areas people think we're doing well and where readers think we need improve. Obviously, we cannot please everyone, as in the TV page controversy; some want more of it and some want less. We strive for a compromise solution.

Putting out a weekly paper is a continual learning experience. Each week's edition is not so much a finished product as an attempt at writing another chapter of the continuing history of the communities we serve. Some weeks we do better than others, but I hope the overall trend is good. I thank all of you who took the time to help us in this effort to better serve our communities. I trust that, as we continue to make changes in the paper, many of you will be able to thank yourselves for those changes.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:
On behalf of the Bethel Board of Selectmen, we wish to extend our appreciation and thank you to the following individuals and groups who so calmly and expertly handled the April 1, 1987, emergency flooding situation:

Bob Davis and the Bethel Fire Department and Public Works Department, who spent long hours on their feet pumping out cellars and repairing damaged roads so as to make them safe and passable; CEP Director Norm Clanton, who helped evacuate flood victims to the community shelter at the Fire Station, and helped perform the post-flood damage assessment; other persons such as Lonnie Davis and Neil Gilbert for the use of their 4WD vehicles to evacuate flood victims in the Steam Mill Neighborhood; the BEARS and the Bethel Area Health Center personnel, who remained on alert all during the crisis in order to assist persons with medical needs; the CMP line personnel, who worked feverishly during the crisis to restore power; Bill Myers and Bob Stevens, who donated the use of their boats to ferry medicine and mail across the flooded water; the various individuals who took flood victims into their homes and gave them a warm place to stay until the water receded; and the individuals who donated food to the evacuated flood victims. The list could go on and on and include others such as the Police Department, Water District, local stores, etc.

Now that the flood waters have receded and people's lives are getting back to normal, we need to repair the damage that was done by the flood, assist those who have suffered the most and learn from this experience how we can be better prepared for the next natural and/or manmade disaster.

To the Editor:
Condo-mania is taking place and it's unpredictable as to how many will be built and where they will go up. This spring there may be 18 units built on the Northwest Bethel Road—land that was cleared and intended to graze cattle will serve as haven for people who live in populated areas and want to get away from it all for short durations. On the rural roads you know your neighbors by the smile on their faces, the sight and even (the) sound of the vehicles they drive. The condo construction will bring in a new breed of people to the outlying rural areas—strangers. I would like to see the condominiums contained at the skiways, but now they are springing up in the village of Bethel. If the construction rate keeps up, Bethel will be referred to as a suburb of Portland.

One reason for the condo-mania is the development of Sunday River Ski Resort. On Jan. 18 it was reported they scored the biggest single-day attendance ever—7,000 skiers. What will the figures be 10 years from now with talk of 100 trails and 18 chairlifts? Natives will have to get in the habit of stocking up on milk, bread and gas during vacation periods because these necessary items sell out fast in a small town. Presently Sunday River is a winter resort but what does the future hold in store??? The direction in which Sunday River grows will directly affect the community.

A draft site plan review ordinance has been developed by a group of dedicated hard-working people called the Land Use Ordinance Committee. This plan has proposed densities for multi-family developments as follows: 10 units per acre on lots serviced by town water and sewer; 4 units per acre on lots serviced only by town water; and 2 units per acre on lots without town water or town sewer. These proposed densities are vital in regulating growth in Bethel. It sets a numerical limit to multi-unit development.

The Planning Board has decided to give the draft ordinance to a professional planner for comment. My feeling is: let the people of Bethel decide its fate. Turn the ordinances over for (the) town warrant at the June 9, 1987 town meeting.

To the Editor:
I was saddened to read last week in the Citizen of Ernestine Philbrook Jackson's death in Danvers, Mass. Mrs. Jackson was a longtime member of the Bethel Historical Society and one of its staunchest friends. She donated many valuable photographs and other artifacts to its collection and was a dedicated guide in its museum as long as her health permitted. She was one of those people who never seemed to age, always interested in the future, chronically optimistic and dedicated to lifelong learning. As the infirmities of old age closed in on her, she did not complain and her zest for life remained undiminished. In short, she was a remarkable lady, who will be greatly missed by all who knew her, but certainly not forgotten.

the first part of April in some areas of the state. The DEP is ruling on a site development application presented by the Inn on the condo project, the agency has the authority to rule on the question of sewage disposal.

The DEP action came despite the fact that the Bethel Sewer Commissioners had already given the Inn permission to tie-in the projected 40 condo units to the sewer system. The local permit was granted with the provision that the Inn pay for renewing 750 feet of existing sewer line, at a projected cost of about $40,000.

Town Manager Rodney Lynch said the best way of improving the town's sewer system was to reduce the amount of infiltrated water in the system, which inhibits the effective operation of the plant and which also takes up capacity that would otherwise be available for more hook-ups.

DEP staffer Tibbetts, who was in Bethel last Wednesday to look at the plant, said the problems go much deeper than the problem of water infiltration. He said the town had been existing a year ago about the problems informing with the plant and the DEP had made quite a number of recommendations at that time—March 1986. "None of the recommendations were pursued by the town," he said.

Town Manager Lynch sent a letter to the DEP three weeks ago responding to each of the recommendations. He told the selectmen Monday night that he hoped to be able to give his responses as the basis for a "consent agreement" with the DEP, by which the town would agree to perform certain corrective actions by a specific date if the system were allowed to continue to operate and accept hook-ups.

The selectmen noted that if it denies the tie-in of The Bethel Inn condos, the DEP would be denying the town $40,000-worth of improvements to the sewer system. They suggested Mr. Lynch hire a consultant who knows his way around the state bureaucracy to try to solve the problem.

But DEP project officer Tibbetts said he did not believe a consent agreement would be acceptable to his agency. What the staff was looking for was immediate action by the town before being allowed to accept additional tie-ins. Mr. Tibbetts suggested that, as a minimum, there should be additional staffing at the sewer plant and correction of the solids processing.

The Inn's condominium project manager, John Laban, was at the DEP yesterday (Tuesday) and stressed to the staff that the project could not withstand a long delay in the permitting process because the builder (Yankee Construction) would scratch the project if work could not begin this spring. He said he is already designing an alternative on-site septic system plan for the condos if the sewer tie-in seems indefinitely stalled.

The DEP's Tibbetts said an alternative sewage plan would require amending the site development application presented to the agency. He said this would be acceptable and the staff would work on it as quickly as possible, understanding the time constraint of the Inn.

Mr. Tibbetts will hold consultations with Mr. Lynch and Mr. Laban later this week. "We're working with the town and the developer (to resolve the issue)," he said.

hearing on the plan, attended by approximately 75 people. The vote was required by the town's site plan review ordinance.

At the hearing, John Riordan, vice-president of Dubois & King—the engineering firm that designed the $1.3 million plant—displayed drawings showing the three aerated lagoons that would hold the effluent, for an average of 25 days, while bacteria worked on it to clean it. Air is to be piped into the lagoons to speed the process. Effluent in the lagoons will reach an average depth of 10 feet, though the lagoons could accommodate up to 14½-feet of liquid matter.

From the lagoons, the wastewater will be treated with chlorine and pumped out into an eight-inch gravity line, which will carry the water to the Sunday River Road. From there, a pump will force the treated wastewater through a six-inch main to the outflow at the Androscoggin, downstream from the confluence of the Sunday River. The total distance from the sewer plant will be 16,000 feet.

The area around the lagoons will be landscaped and fenced, and the only buildings will be a 24-by-40-foot control room and a pumphouse. According to a condition imposed by the Planning Board, the force will have a back-angled overhang to inhibit children from climbing over it.

Newry residents were concerned over the question of odor coming from the lagoons. Dubois & King's Riordan admitted, "You will get odors." But, he said, "This system is designed to minimize odors."

The major difference between the skiway's system and Bethel's system, which is approximately the same size, is that Bethel's treatment facility retains the effluent for just a few days, extracting the solids from the liquids and forming a sludge from them. It is this sludge that gives off most of the odor associated with a sewer plant, Mr. Riordan said. In the skiway's system, because the effluent is treated by bacteria for an average of 25 days, there is little remaining to form into sludge. In fact, so slow is the sludge buildup that it would have to be removed only once every 10 years, he said.

The sewer plant will allow Sunday River Ski Resort to continue expanding. According to the plan presented to the state Department of Environmental Protection late last year, the sewer plant will take 40,000 gallons per day from condos already on the mountain (presently being serviced by septic systems) and will accommodate an additional 224,000 gallons per day of sewage from condos and restaurants yet to be built. The ad ded capacity would accommodate an additional 1,560 hotel and condominium units, according to the plan presented to the DEP, which would bring the total number of units at the skiway to 1,750—if all the plan's "proposed units" were built.

Presently there are no plans to build that many units, according to skiway officials. Last week, Sunday River Skiway Corp. President Les Otten announced this summer's building plans, which call for the building of 240 new units. This will bring the total number of units at the skiway to 664. This summer's building program will cost $25 million, including $5 million for new lifts, trails, snowmaking, etc. (See April 15 issue for details.)

Newry Selectman Steve Wight, who chaired Friday night's public hearing on the sewer plant, told the large crowd, "I personally think this will be a great asset to the town."

Costa Rica exchange under study at Gould

Leonardo Solis, vice president of the board of directors of the YMCA of Costa Rica is visiting the Gould Academy campus from April 20 to April 23. During his visit, Mr. Solis will be discussing a proposed exchange program with students and faculty members of Gould Academy.

On Wednesday, April 22, at 7 p.m. there will be a public forum held in which Mr. Solis will discuss any questions that people may have about Costa Rica and other Central American countries. The public is cordially invited to participate in this forum that will be held in the Gehring Hall lounge.

The Bethel Rotary Club met at Martha's Restaurant for a breakfast meeting on Tuesday, April 21.

Joining with the group was Bruce Johnson of Gould Academy, guest of Bill Clough.

Polio Plus information was provided by Bruce Powell, who discussed the scope and goals of the Rotary organization with the ultimate objective of ridding the world of polio, and other illnesses.

President Dave Preble announced that the next board of directors meeting will be held at 8 p.m. on Monday, April 27, at the Casco Bank. Let us all be there. Dave also announced that Scott Dennis and Roger Conant plan to organize a youth basketball program for the summer. He also recruited Dewaine Craig and Bill Clough to head up a fund raising dinner in the month of May. More on that later.

Fryeburg Fair plans big expansion

Fryeburg Fair will spend $250,000 in capital improvements this year, trustees decided at their annual spring meeting last week.

Among the improvements will be the construction of two four-lane ox barns. The estimated $100,000 project will consolidate the fair's week-long gathering of steers and oxen as well as eliminate the need to tie animals outside.

The second large project will be the construction of an additional race horse barn. The 120-foot-long stable will have 24 box stalls and will cost an estimated $40,000.

Additional parking was authorized, with the proposed clearing of an additional 15 acres. Work is expected to begin immediately to prepare the added areas for both vehicles and campers.

Last year proved to be a record-setter for gate receipts and total crowd. More than a quarter of a million people visited the state's largest fair during its 136th season. That record turnout count added $1,093,314 to the fair's coffers. In addition, parimutuel betting grossed $807,473.

To facilitate parimutuel betting, a six-and the expenditure of funds in support of these established programs. Bill also, acting as program chairman for the meeting, introduced Leonardo Solis from Costa Rica. Leonardo talked to the members about Central American subject matter. Costa Rica is one of the most democratic countries in the world and is located between Nicaragua and Panama. The economy is very dependent on agriculture. Because of its location, Costa Rica is in a strategic position in South America. Leonardo is a chemist by occupation. He will be lecturing at Gould Academy on Wednesday, April 22, and the public will be invited to attend. It was an interesting program.

tant. He estimated his consultation would cost $600. He would be able to begin work next week.

The selectmen, on a 3-1 vote, decided to hire Mr. Haskell and authorized allocating the $660 fee from Planning Board receipts. (Selectmen Jodrey, Dooen and Haines voted for the consultation; Selectman Gilbert was opposed, saying local officials could do as good a job with the ordinance as an outside consultant.)

The draft ordinance has already been cleared by legal experts at Maine Municipal Association, the selectmen were told.

In other action, the selectmen voted 4-0 to defer action on a proposed chimney ordinance. The Fire Department had recommended the ordinance be placed on the warrant of annual Town Meeting. Fire Department officials see the ordinance as a way of making chimneys safer and less susceptible to causing house fires.

The selectmen found the ordinance too restrictive. They also noted it should have been turned in by April 1 to be placed on the warrant. They also want to have legal experts look over the language in the draft ordinance.

The board extended the terms of the following appointed town officials: John Gray (Planning Board), Gordon Gillies (Board of Appeals), Jack Brooks (Budget Committee), Bill Cousins (Budget Committee), Jane Young (Budget Committee), Jeri Brooks (Law Enforcement), Robert Blake (Law Enforcement). The terms expired March 31 because the appointments date from before the current system of having a fiscal year beginning July 1. The terms were extended to June 30.

mean obtaining right-of-way from the land owners along the road, building a bridge across Bear River, as well as two other bridges or large culverts, and building approximately three miles of road. Cost of the project is estimated at over a half million dollars, and it was felt it would serve no real purpose and be difficult to maintain in winter.

Mr. Fleet said it would cost approximately $11,500, plus the cost of new culverts, to be installed, to finish repairing flood damage on the town roads. Approximately $2,000 has already been expended on the Branch Road. Some work has been done on the Sunday River Road for which the town has not yet been billed. In addition, the roads will need some paving. It is expected that federal and state aid will be available to pay some of the costs.

Reminder: There will be an old time dance at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall on Saturday, April 25, for the benefit of the Greenwood Historical Society.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary will meet at 8:30 p.m. on Monday, April 27, at the fire station. The Ladies Circle met Wednesday, at the Sunday School Room with only eight present. Very little business was transacted. Mary Mills furnished the cake. Charlotte Cole presided over the meeting in the absence of Vera Cross.

Sylvia and Leland Dunham returned home Wednesday after spending six weeks in Fort Lauderdale and Orlando, Fla.

Valerie Cole returned to college to Plymouth, N.H., after spending part of her vacation at her home here. While on vacation she went to Cape Cod where she obtained employment for the summer as a swimming instructor.

The Greenwood Fire Department was called out to a chimney fire at Margaret "Red" Bailey's home on Howe Hill one day last week.

Susie Cole Parker, husband Michael, and their baby daughter, have returned to Virginia. Susie and baby had spent seven months visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cole, while Michael was away on shipboard.

There was a trustees meeting of the Locke Mills Union Church Tuesday evening at the home of Dick and Bev Melville. The Easter week services and breakfast were discussed.

Vera Cross and Charlotte Cole visited Dora and Elmer Dingley, West Paris, Thursday, and had dinner and played cards. Charlotte took down a cake also in honor of Dora's birthday on Friday.

Looraine and John Mills were dinner guests at Dot and Roger Chopping's home in East Dixfield Sunday, April 12.

Anne Troy, Vera Cross, and Charlotte Cole went to see Helena Bartlett at her new apartment at the Bethel House one day last week.

Bits and pieces of news concerning the area includes that the ice is out at Twitchell Pond and nearly out at South Pond; the schools are closed for vacation this week; and viruses and colds have been striking again. Among the victims this week, Bertha Flanders and your correspondent. I also understand Lorraine Paudler sold her house last fall. I'm often the last to hear the news!

John Mills was in Lewiston Saturday with Pastor Van Horn to attend a training session for the leaders of the Royal Rangers, only to find that it had been cancelled. Very frustrating. Just so the whole trip wasn't wasted, they went shopping—and they talk about us women!

As most people who know me know I inherited a love for animals from both sides of my family which sometimes takes a ridiculous twist. Besides cats and dogs we've raised ducks and other bits of animal life, and animals in this household have gotten used to having guests show up and display little more than mild curiosity at a stranger in their midst. They even contribute sometimes by bringing home baby rabbits, snakes, baby ducks, etc., that they feel need looking after. The problems is that cats are supposed to catch mice and they do—

I managed to dump him out of there and one of my cats dutifully chased him around the room. She even caught him once, but not being allowed to take him into the kitchen she let him go again, glared at me and went out the open back window. I gave up. I grabbed the mouse by the tail and marched him outside, where I left him to brave the dangers of the night. It is really something when you have five cats—and you have to catch the mice.

The veterinary is scheduled to be in Upton May 15 for giving rabies shots to animals needing it. Dogs must be licensed by the following Tuesday.

B.E.A.R.S.

Bethel Emergency Ambulance and Rescue Service

There will be a three day course April 24, 25, and 26 run by the Wilderness Medical Assoc. This will be a wilderness medicine workshop at the Outward Bound base. Things have been quiet for the BEARS.

Safety Tip

It is getting to be warmer weather. Be careful how long you stay out in the sun. Short periods of time are better than a long period of time. A mild sunburn usually is only uncomfortable. A bad sunburn can even make the person sick. Get yourself used to the sun and heat.

Newry

By AMY HANSCOM

Zachary Boylan, New Jersey, was a guest of his mother and sister, Veronica Smith and Lisa Boylan, last week.

June Swan, Olive Anderson, Eleanor Davis, Thelma Lowery, Gilberte Seely, and Beatrice Lowell, were in Norway bowling April 15. Betsy Clark and Rena Powers were guests. Gilberte Seely was high scorer. After bowling, the ladies had lunch and went shopping.

The planning board met April 15, to work on the municipal services section of the Comprehensive Plan. Board member James Sysko proposed the re-opening and re-building of the old mountain Road running from near the residence of Freda Robertson on Bear River, over the mountain to near the residence of Romeo Baker on Sunday River. Members Ann Friedlander, Nancy Noppa and Mike Lynch agreed, with Veronica Smith opposing. Eleanor Davis and David Fleet were absent. This road, which connected the two rivers, was discontinued in 1917. Re-opening this road would require obtaining rights of way from property owners, building a bridge over Bear River and construction of approximately one mile of road. Cost of the project could run as high as $250,000 or more.

The selectmen met with Road Commissioner Marshall Fleet Friday morning to survey flood damage to town roads. All roads were passable but work remains to be done. Selectman, CEP Director, Lee Swan, and Mr. Fleet were in South Paris April 16, to see about federal and state aid for repairing the damage. It appears that aid will be available and it is expected that officials will meet with the road commissioner next week to survey and assess the damage.

God Friday services were held at the Newry Community Church Friday evening, with other area churches participating. Ministers taking part in the service with Rev. Lisa Vonderheide, United Methodist Church, Bethel; Rev. Jean Bass and Rev. Brendon Bass, West Parish Congregational Church, Bethel; Rev. Norman Rust, West Bethel Union Church; and Pastor Rodney Hanscom, Newry Community Church. Mary Valentine, Bethel, led the choir, which was made up from members of area churches, and played the organ for the anthem. Nancy Hanscom, Newry church organist, organist, played for the remainder of the service. The anthem was "What Wonderous Love is This." Other hymns were "The Old Rugged Cross," "Were You There?" and "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." Scripture readings were from Isaiah 52:13-52:12, Matthew 23:34, 15-26, 35-40, 45-54. The offering will go to the Bethel Area Clergy Association Scholarship, awarded annually to person who has demonstrated a commitment to church and community life and is going on for further education.

Easter Sunrise Services were held at Mother Walker Falls, followed by breakfast at Owen Wright's and the regular church meeting at 9 a.m.

The annual meeting of the Union Religious Society of the Newry Community church will be held at the church Monday evening, April 27, at 7 p.m. It is requested that the Bear River children, who have borrowed skis, return them to Sylvia Wright as soon as possible. Sunday River children may take their skis to the skiway.

Several Newry residents have asked the selectmen recently about changing the formula for assessing school district costs for the five towns in SAD #44. While Andover and Newry would benefit by a change, Greenwood would benefit little.

HAPPY EASTER EGG FINDERS: The above Gilead youngsters took part in the town's egg hunt Saturday at the town hall. They are, left to right: Freeman Coriveau, Fabian Coriveau (who won a big bunny for finding a large egg and $2 for finding the most eggs), Monica Coriveau (who also found a large egg), Alicia Taylor, Jodi Barnes and Mariah Boelsma. In the food basket drawing, Rose Taylor had the winning ticket, winning the food basket sponsored by the Gilead Women's Club.

and Bethel and Woodstock would be hurt by a change.

The five towns' share of the proposed fiscal year 1988 budget, excluding Adult Education is $1,851,188. With a total of 1,024 pupils, this means a per pupil average of $1,807.80. Andover, with 172 pupils, pays $470.67, or $2,735.85 per pupil; Bethel, 452 pupils, $394.77, $1,315.90 per pupil; Greenwood, 113 pupils, $359.35, $1,850 per pupil; Newry, 55 pupils, $4,038.56 per pupil; Woodstock, 212 pupils, $304.35, $1,435.54 per pupil.

Andover's assessment is 51 percent over the per pupil average, Newry's 123 percent over, and Greenwood's 8 percent over. Bethel's assessment is 28 percent under the per pupil average and Woodstock's 21 percent under for FY '88. With a change to straight per pupil cost, Andover would be assessed $310,942, Bethel $817,123, Greenwood $240,437, Newry $99,429, and Woodstock $383,253. At 50 percent per pupil and 50 percent state valuation, Andover's share would be $330,437, Bethel $704,733, Greenwood $49,801, Newry $180,786, and Woodstock $344,350. Under the FY '88 assessments, Andover, with 172 pupils, pay for 260. Bethel with 452 pays for 329; Greenwood with 212 pays for 168; Newry with 55 pays for 123.5; and Woodstock with 212 pays for 168, for FY '88, under the current method of assessing costs based on state valuation.

The Newry Mothers Club met April 13 at the Swan's club room with 15 members present. President Nancy Wright opened the meeting, and Gil Seely read the opening prayer. Treasurer June Swan brought the finances up to date, and Peg Wright, secretary, read the notes of the last meeting and took care of the correspondence.

Olive Anderson, the sunshine lady, reported on sending cards to families on different related occasions. She reported on the progress of the history of the club that she is putting together to be printed later in the Bangor Daily

A committee was formed of Sis Post, Gil Seely, Helen Morton, Sue Moore and Eleanor Davis to assist on the luncheon of May 9, Saturday, for the NOVA get-together. It was reported that a large sum of money has been received from people in the community for a scholarship fund in memory of Boots Morton who passed away recently.

The mystery prize was won by Roae Bartholomew. A discussion on plans to take the children of Newry to some fun place in the month of June was left on the table until a future time.

Election of officers will take place in May. There will be a plant sale also at that time. Eleanor Davis will arrange a "calendar" game for the May social hour. The refreshment committee will be Rae Bartholomew, Sis Post, Sylvia Gray. Birthday greetings were given to Olive Anderson, Eunice Sysko, Sue Moore and Bonnie Learned. A game party was enjoyed during the social hour with Betsy Clark as the caller.

S.R.S.T.C. OWNER RETURNS FROM MONTANA TRIP

Sunday River Ski Touring Center owner Steve Wight recently returned from a trip to Big Sky, Montana, where he attended the annual meeting of Cross Country Ski Areas of America, the national association of ski touring centers. At the meeting, Mr. Wight was honored as one of the founders of the organization 10 years ago. Actually his involvement dates back to 1972 when he helped to form the New England Ski Touring Operators' Association which grew into the Northeast Ski Touring Operators' Association, then the National Ski Touring Operators' Association, and finally CCSAA.

The meeting in Montana was attended by representatives of 45 cross country ski centers from all across the northern snowbelt. In addition to productive and informative sessions on ski area operation, there was plenty of time for cross country skiing into Yellowstone Park, telemarking at Sky Sky, and sampling the fabulous food and gracious hospitality of host area Lone Mountain Ranch, Mr. Wight says he "almost didn't come home."

THIS WEEK AT THE
Moses Mason House

The April meeting of the Oxford County League of Historical Societies was held at the West Sumner Universalist Church with about 50 persons present representing nearly all the historical societies in Oxford County. Hosts for the meeting were members of the Sumner Historical Society and the group was welcomed to Sumner by the vice president, Charles Jones, Oxford County League President Stanley R. Howe announced that the writing contest in honor of the bicentenary of the U.S. Constitution, which is to be sponsored by the league, is well underway and all schools in the county have been (or soon will be) notified. Dr. Howe also brought to the attention of the members that fact that the long awaited publication Oxford County, Maine: A Guide to its Architecture by Randall H. Bennett is now out and copies are going fast. He also reported that the incorporation process is well underway and should be completed by the next meeting tentatively scheduled to take place in July in Fryeburg. It was announced that the September meeting would be held in Hartford and the program will feature a presentation on New England and the Constitution. During the program portion of this meeting in Sumner, Vernon and Charlotte Braden of Sumner read from Civil War letters of two Sumner men, Isaac Bonney and Daniel Palmer. These provided first-hand insights into the problems of service in that war, ranging from the shortage of food and supplies to the inadequate medical care. A social hour and refreshments followed the program.

The Bethel Historical Society received several genealogies which will be of interest to those involved in family history. These include A History and Genealogy of the Conant Family in America (Volume II) by Frederick Odell Conant (gift of Randall H. Bennett), The Pedigree of Fletcher Garrison Hall by Garrison Kent Hall and The Family of Captain John Mills by William Carroll Hill. A book on Richmond, Maine, has been received from Ben B. Conant of South Paris as a book Family Album (which contains a photo of the Bethel Androscoggin River covered bridge) has been donated by Virginia Smith of Buckfield. Much appreciation is expressed for these fine donations to the society. Anyone interested in using these volumes is cordially invited to do so.

In the recently published, and the society sponsored book, Oxford County, Maine: A Guide to its Architecture, the problem of accurately dating 18th century houses in Oxford County is addressed. In reference to the fact that many of the area's earliest buildings were constructed of logs, rather than of framed timbers, a volume from the society's extensive library holdings provides a valuable, and no doubt reliable, explanation. The late Vincent York, in his The Sandy River and its Valley (1978), quotes William Allen, one of Norridgewock, Maine's historians, on this subject: "first year, cut down trees on five or six acres, and burn ground over in preparation for planting; second year, after planting is done, build log house, cut more trees, move family in before the harvest; third year, build small barn, increase stock; fourth year, raise English hay, rye, wheat and corn and begin living more comfortably; fifth year, clear more land, increase flocks and herds; sixth year, start pulling stumps and preparing land for the plow; seventh year, build self a framed house if you

Greenwood City
By COLISTA MORGAN

The April twilight is folding the distant hills into night. Like pins in a pincushion rise the tops of the pines silhouetted against the colors of the day.

Even as I look there is a glint of light like a small jewel in a setting of gold. The whole day had been so beautiful. I went outside early to work on the lawn and to walk beside the pond. I stopped by my big rock with its cushion of moss, to view the valley before I picked up my rake for work. If the rock could speak would it say, "Why is there only one of you?"

I moved forward and my eyes traveled across the smooth surface of the water and to the opposite shore. Here grew graceful birches and hard woods while beyond stood the regal pines.

I crossed the lawn and stayed a moment to look at the color of the crocus plants. Then I took my rake and went to work.

Later in the afternoon I went out to get pussy willows. Reaching the crown of a ridge I felt a surge of joy at the open space before me. I found it a watery place and a jungle of undergrowth which as of now had no greening touch.

The sky was a flawless sheet of blue. It seemed as if the treasure of spring could not be too distant. I stopped to take a deep breath, smell the earth and rest. It made me feel that I wasn't just a wanderer but had anchorage here.

Distantly I could hear the brook running, so recently freed from its grip of ice. I turned and followed it down the hill and back to where phoebe was calling me home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis, Albert Curtis and I were at the Maine Medical on Friday, to see my brother Ernest Curtis, who has been there since Feb. 14. He was much better.

On Sunday, Leonas and Holt and I went to Dexter to see David Holt. Robert Holt, Ricky, and Jenny joined us there. David is leaving Dexter to take the town manager job in Standish.

Callers this week at the home of can. The latter point, according to York, is the crucial one since a saw mill had to exist before frame buildings could be constructed.

Much sympathy is extended to the family of Ernestine Philbrook Jackson, longtime society member. Several donations have already been received for the endowment in Mrs. Jackson's memory. They include those of Robert and Lois Jackson, Amesbury, Mass.; Ethel L. Partiss, Wolfeboro, N.H.; and Lelia S. Fogg, Amesbury, Mass.

Newest society member is Dorothea Nielsen of Manchester, Conn.

ASTHMA SELF-MANAGEMENT
PROGRAM STARTS APRIL 27
AT RUMFORD HOSPITAL

A patient education program of asthma self-management for groups of children with asthma, ages 13 and under, will be presented at Rumford Community Hospital starting April 27. The program entitled "Air Power" will be presented in four one-hour sessions on Monday evenings: April 27, May 4, 11, and 18, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

The goal of this self-management program is to teach children the skills necessary to deal with their asthma and to assume responsibility for the daily management of the condition. The focus for parents will be to help them become active supporters of their children's self-management efforts.

Parents and children will attend separate sessions in order that the program may provide appropriate learning experiences. The children's sessions will be presented by Dr. Paulette Cary, pediatrician, and Robin Chase, CRPT, respiratory therapy department. The parents' session will be presented by Anne Marie Cruickshank, R.N., nursing supervisor.

There is a $20 charge for the entire program including parents and children and pre-registration is required. For more information and/or registration call the RCH Education Office at 364-3481, ext. 300.

NEWRY PLANNING COMMITTEE
MEETING TONIGHT (WED.)

The Newry Planning Committee will be meeting tonight (Wednesday) at 6:30 p.m. at the town office to discuss issues and policies for the comprehensive plan. Sessions will also be held Thursday and Friday at 3 p.m.

Dorothy Curtis were Vicky Campbell and family, West Paris; Ruth Collins, Brunswick; Evelyn Heikinen, Mexico; Sonny and Sharon Bushey and family, South Paris; Mildred Bowman, Canton. Local callers were Rena and Kathy Curtis, Irene Stevens, and Eva Felton.

Eva Felton and Kathy Curtis visited Lucy Bragg at Sumner one day to be with Lucy on her birthday.

The third graders in Ms. Merrill's room have enjoyed Easter art activities, courtesy of wonderful volunteer parents and grandparents. Sue Wight and Sue Bowle helped make Easter Dioramas that look adorable on the bulletin board.

Nancy Grover, Jean Bass and Leslie Moore blew lots of eggs for the class to dye, and had neat ideas to decorate them. They've enjoyed looking at the 57 lovely eggs on their "Spring" Easter Egg tree, thanks to their special volunteer help! Ms. Boyce, librarian at Telstar, and her daughter visited Mrs. Gilbert's 4th grade to talk about floppy eared rabbits. They brought 2 of their lop eared bunnies with them. One of them was a French lop with very long, draggy ears. The other was a mini lop, smaller version of the French lop. Because their ears are so long and heavy the shape of their heads is more like that of a goat than like a regular rabbit. What a bunny! And what a great way to learn!

Mrs. Wheeler's 5th grade science classes went to Gould Academy. The kids visited each of the stations of Jim Fiske's chemistry students. Gould students explained and demonstrated the concept of the fifth graders got a unique taste of the wonderful world of science. They're grateful to Mr. Fiske and his students. Congratulations to Amanda Gilbert who knows the facts! She was able to do 200 addition/subtraction facts making her the first "grand champion."

We're looking forward to five concert events this spring. Keep these dates in mind!

Voices in the Dark

One day Jamie, Tina and I were walking home from school. We walked down to Jamie's house where Tina's mom and my mom were visiting Jamie's mom. We asked our moms if we could go see the Bangles concert. They hesitated.

My mom said, "Let us think about it." Then after a while, Tina's mom yelled up, "Yes, you girls can go, except you have to be home before eleven o'clock. Have you girls already got tickets to the Bangles?"

"Yes," they said.

"How are you girls going to get back and forth?" asked mother.

"Walking. Mom, we're going now," they said.

When they got there, there was no one there except an old creepy looking man walking up and down the halls with a hump back. Suddenly, the lights went out and the old man's eyes were red and we started walking down the halls. We went in the study hall room and saw green, red, blue, white and orange eyes everywhere. We quickly ran out and heard voices. We walked in every other class room and did the same thing. We finally ran out the door. On the way home we heard voices in the woods and we finally arrived at Jamie's house.

"How was the concert, girls?" the mothers asked.

"Don't ask," said the girls.

Sherlock Holmes and the Escape

One night Sherlock Holmes was watching TV news. "And here is the latest story," boomed the TV and something caught his eye. The last bad guy, he had caught, had escaped! Holmes called the police station. "Hello, may I take this case?" asked Holmes. "Yes Holmes, go for it!" said the officer.

He got on his jacket and hat and went outside. He looked up at an apartment building and saw a lady with a knife in her heart fall to the ground. Then the convict came out and saw Holmes. "It won't be easy to catch me this time!" he yelled as he threw a knife. Holmes dodged and shot his pistol, but missed. The convict took his knife and started to fight with Holmes, but Holmes knocked him out cold and put him in jail.

The Haunted House

One night I was walking home from my friend's house. I was getting tired of walking, so I went into an old creepy house. I saw the fireplace going, but I didn't see anybody, so I thought, "What the heck, I'll warm myself up anyway."

I heard a noise coming from upstairs, so I went upstairs and I saw a wren. I picked up a steel bar and bashed it over his head. His teeth fell out and then a witch came by. I decked the wren into the witch and they both went flying out the window and landed on the black iron fence. I ran down the stairs and there was Frankenstein. I knew he was really heavy and the floor was weak, so I jumped on the floor and he fell through. I ran about 90 miles an hour all the way home. I never went there again.

Weddings

One day Jane and her boyfriend were going to get married. They had to make arrangements for the wedding. So, they did and they were going to get married on Wednesday at the church they went to.

So, the next day it was Tuesday and they were getting ready for the big day, the next day Jane got the beautiful dress and it was "the most beautiful dress" she'd ever seen.

Jane's boyfriend got the ring. Here is where they are going to get married.

The next day, the big day came and the people were arriving. They said, "It looks like the prettiest wedding place we have ever seen."

While the bride was getting ready the people were having punch and talking about the bride and the husband was going to the room to get ready.

They were both almost ready and everybody was happy and now they are going to get married.

The Fox Queen

Once upon a time there was a queen. Sheena was a fox queen. One day Sheena was walking in the forest with her pet foxes.

All of a sudden an eagle swooped down and picked up one of the pups.

The next day Sheena went on an expedition to find the pup. Finally they found the pup in an eagle's cave.

Then Sheena snuck up on the eagle and tricked him into giving up the pup. While one of the foxes distracted him, Sheena put a plastic pup in the real pup's place.

That night they had a celebration. Sheena played the guitar and the foxes sang along.

The Flood of 1987

On March 31st, rain poured from the sky. We were not able to have our recess. It was decided that due to the heavy rains, school would be dismissed at 11:30 a.m.

The rivers, small streams and brooks were gathering water with every drop. Many people began to feel worried and scared because all the rain might cause a flood.

Throughout the day it continued to pour. The water was rising and starting to overflow. People were preparing for a flood.

Water began to flow across the road by the bus garage. While the water was rising, the busses were moved to a safer place.

At about 8:00 p.m., it was decided that the electricity would be shut off, so that the water couldn't destroy the sub station.

The only way some people could return home was by boat. Some people were stranded. Flooding caused some people to be evacuated from their homes.

Throughout the night rain kept pouring. By morning, the situation was becoming dangerous. Roads were flooded and in some places washed out. Many roads were closed. Low areas of what used to be land, were turning into lakes.

In-town Bethel was affected by the flood. Alex noticed that the water was flooding a certain spot on Vernon Street.

The culvert in Briana's dooryard was starting to move.

Beside the railroad tracks water was building up and running around trees. Water pushed its way to Clark Street.

Leah saw a henhouse floating in the field.

Waman saw the water flooding Camm II.

The cellar in Cindy's house was flooded.

Theresa spent the night in Bethel and was surprised to see so much water.

Leroy said that the flooding had caused many people to leave their homes in Doen's Trailer Park.

In West Bethel, every road was blocked by water. Andy's family looked to see if there was a way out.

At Adam's house, only trailer trucks dared to cross the flooded area. The only way Adam could get out of his house was by canoe.

Wednesday took a ride with her mother, her sisters and two friends. They rode towards Bethel, but it was flooded by Mr. Rugs. Wednesday's father and Wilbur were out in a canoe rescuing people.

Part of Sunday River was flooded. Nate reported that the road by Fred Burk's was washed out. Many side roads were washed out also.

In Newry, the Bear River Cabins was sitting in water. Stoney Brook did some damage to land. Mrs. Wight could not get into town to take care of the baby chicks.

In Gilead, at White's Brook, it was flooded. At Monica's house, water flooded her driveway and over the banks.

The water washed out Chuck's grandfather's road.

Ryan said that Chapman Brook was flooded. The road was washed out by Wild River.

"The road to get to Songo Pond, in Albany, was flooded," said Gabe. Near four corners, there was a big ditch created by the water running from the hill.

The pond behind Angela's house was flooded. The brook by Wesley's house was flooded.

In Woodstock, a bridge was destroyed. Quentin had eight feet of ice cold water in his cellar.

The water rose by Sam's house in Locke Mills.

We will all remember the flood of 1987!

At Home

I have three dogs and two fish tanks. In one tank the fish have been dying. We got some more fish, two are the same. Their colors were black and their tails were red. I like watching them. There was a white fish, but last night it died and I flushed it down the toilet.

Then I played Atari for a little while and I made a bracelet. I had a bowl of popcorn and then I went to bed. I looked at the stars.

The dogs barked. Mom told the dogs to be quiet.

When it was morning my dad got up and fed the fish. The fish were O.K.

Then I woke up and asked if I could play Atari. My dad said I could play Atari.

Dear Easter Bunny

For the last three years I have found my Easter basket less than full. This problem may come because I live at the top of a ski area. My friend told me that you broke your skis and you didn't like to go to my house at the top of the mountain because you didn't have any skis to ski down on after you visited. My dad bought me a new pair of skis this year because I outgrew my old ones. My old skis are just your size and I would be happy to let you use them to ski down to the bottom of the mountain after you visit my house. Now that you have new skis, no excuses for not coming to my house on Easter. Hope to see you on the slopes!

The Skiing Trip

Skiing is fun because it is jumpy. I like the hill, but it is fast. I fall down sometimes. I go down Agony. It was the first time I went on Agony.

I watch them jump. The people were jumping on one of those professional places. I was on the same hill as he was. They brought him to the hospital.

He was on Agony. I fell and my mom said to go on a different hill because it was too dangerous.

Sammy was in class working on a math test. Then she remembered what the teacher said. "If you make a sound, then you will get fifty points off your test."

There is a lot of snow in Locke Mills and Bethel, Maine. I like the snow very much. However, sometimes there is just too much of it and I wish it would melt.

The Stone Frog

Once a first grade class made a frog out of clay. They all worked on it together. When they were done it was five feet tall.

Tony said, "Good job!"

Steve said, "Yeah, it looks great!"

They all stamped around the room. When it was time for lunch they all sat down to eat. The frog began to move, but they weren't looking. They kept on eating until they saw what was happening. They yelled and screamed, "What a mess!"

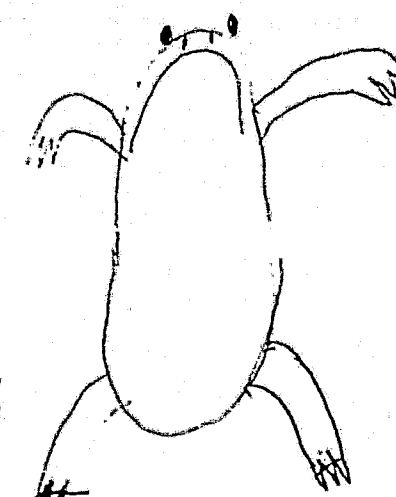

But the frog ignored them and walked down the road and into a store. He helped himself to two cartons of ice cream, a pack of gum and three sodas.

He said, "Thanks!"

He went home and he watched T.V. while he ate his snack.

The Flood at the Bus Garage

Part One

The Flood at the bus garage is up to the buses. We notice the water is coming up from the ground.

"It will take our tools away," said the busman.

Part Two-About the Tools

They've got to have knives to cut the wires. They need wrenches to tighten the bolts up. The men need screwdrivers to screw the screws. Do you know why the Busmen need hammers? They need hammers to pound the nails.

Part Three

"I hope the water will go back," said the other Busman.

"Me too."

"The water better go back to the river and it did when we went to sleep, but we have to work on the buses."

"I know that," said the man, "So come on, get going."

"You have to do it too. I will get the tools for you."

By VIVA WHITMAN

A cloudy Thursday greeted us when we got up this morning. I thought the weatherman said it was to be sunny for the next 36 hours, but someone made a mistake. Guess we will just have to put up with whatever comes our way. Anyway, the green grass showing in so many places tells us that warm weather can't be far off and the few days we have had up in the 60's has felt good.

Sorry I didn't get anything in last week but was under the weather, so to speak, keeping some of the folks company in the hospital for a few days. I came home on Friday after having some work done in the forenoon. Had hoped to feel better than I do, but hopefully, things will be better in the near future, thanks to the good care I received from the doctors and nurses.

Got up Saturday and did a small wash as everything was dirty. Didn't have too much energy left afterward, but at least the clothes were clean and it was a good day for washing. Russell did the same. He took advantage of the good weather and got his wash done, also. Didn't try to do much during the weekend, but went to have a back treatment on Monday. Wynona had an appointment to have her bad ankle looked at about 11 a.m., so we met them near the hospital and after Russell got his blood test done, we brought the girls home with us and got lunch ready for all. Wynona had to wait awhile to be seen, so we had lunch nearly eaten when she came in with a cast on her foot and leg. They didn't stay long after lunch. She left her car with us and borrowed mine, which has automatic shift, so she could drive and get where she needs to go. She is so busy taking Courtney to nursery school twice a week and going to school to teach or direct the other teachers four nights a week with meetings here and there in between and caring for the girls, it keeps her on the go most of the time. Hopefully after a couple of weeks in the cast, she will begin to improve where her ankle is concerned.

I was glad to have Hilda come in to see me last Friday night. It is always good to see friends and relatives. Helen Strout and friend Lynn were here on Monday night and I helped Helen with studies what I could. Was very tired when she went home but glad to be of some use to her.

Tuesday was another day of pain and feeling miserable but have survived it and expect to many more. Got some medication to help but didn't do all it should, so went for another treatment on my ribs on Wednesday. That has helped.

I left off sugar for the most part some time ago and my arthritis is better. I thought some of you who have arthritis might benefit from the knowledge. Russell has also left off sugar and it has helped his legs a lot. He still has tendinitis in his elbow, but arthritis is better in so many ways. Sugars and carbohydrates or things that turn into carbohydrates seem to be one of the big causes of arthritis. I know how hard it is to leave off these things. In a book that Russell bought, it says that a tablespoon of cod liver oil in orange juice or milk taken in the morning a half hour before eating will help oil up the joints and be of benefit to the cause. Get up at least ten minutes earlier and take two glasses of warm water. Don't drink with meals. Drink at least 10 minutes before eating and refrain from drinking with meals unless it is milk, which is considered a

Tri-Town Rescue

When you live in a small town, you really know that your neighbors are there to help if needed, and something happens that makes that knowing more vivid. Sunday morning (April 12) was one of those times for Tri-Town. Early that morning there was a serious accident just above Trap Corner, and we were sorely in need of those helpful neighbors, and they were there. We would like to publicly thank the West Paris Fire Department, the South Paris Fire Department, with their Jaws of Life, Russell's Ambulance Service, Earle Palmer, and Frank Perham. Without their able assistance, a tragic situation could have been much more tragic!

A reminder, Tri-Town's training is delayed this month because of school vacation, and will be held on Wednesday the 29th.

Safety Hunt:
If you go boating or canoeing this time of year, be extra careful. The temperature of the water is only a bit above freezing, and if you should fall in, you could be in serious trouble within minutes. If you're going in a water craft, wear your personal flotation device, know the predicted weather conditions, stay within the limits of your boat, don't overload your boat, let someone know where you are going and when you're due to be back. If you do fall out of your boat, stay with it. You would not be able to swim the normal distances due to the temperature, and this is your best chance of being rescued. Again, be careful!

food, or soup which contains a little fatty substance. Sounds crazy I know but it will help. It has helped Russell. He eats fruit instead of having cakes or cookies which he has always loved so much. It takes a lot of will power, but anything you can do to eliminate sugars will help. Enough of that, just hope the weather will get warm and good and the garden dry enough for Russell to rototill so we can get started planting soon. Peas and spinach do good in cool weather and need planting early so hope to do so soon. Last year, Russell planted peas on April 15 but not this year.

We have lots of plans and hope we can go through with them. If the good Lord would just give me some energy, that would help. Also if he would take away the muscle spasms that I am having in my left chest and shoulder, that would help. Maybe I am asking too much but would just like to be able to do many of the things I want to do. It makes it hard when one can't and takes away some of the hope. Got to get it back somehow.

Everyone take care and enjoy the warmer weather. Hope lots of you have some pretty bluebirds. We had hoped for some but haven't seen any so probably won't have any in the new birdhouses any more than last year.

I believe West Paris Grange is having a sale on May 8. It will be a what-not and food sale with some crafts, so come and see what is available.

I am glad for all those I have heard who are getting better from whatever. God bless you all.

I hope all the taxpayers met the April 15 deadline, so not to be fined an extra dollar or two.

Many attended the open house at the new Oxford Bank at West Paris April 11. It was good to meet and talk to so many old friends. I didn't hear who won the prizes. Donuts and coffee were served and caps and visors in green and white and beautiful green carnations for the ladies were given out. Oh, yes, balloons for the youngsters.

The Community Club baked bean supper is shaping up good. Keep in mind that supper is served promptly at 5 p.m. and will be served until the food runs out. We will try to be prepared. Remember the date is April 25.

Callers at Lawrence's: Polly Lawrence, Richard Felt, Francis Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Heath, Mr. and Mrs. Roger LaCroix, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott and son Kenneth.

Corey Bonney Sr. returned to his home on Tuesday from the VA Facility at Togus. Get better fast, it's time for fishing.

It's that time of year again. Smelting. Joe Vatcher got six the first night and Sayward Lamb got five so Joe gave his to Sayward. Joe is on a diet.

Got my Easter bonnet all dusted off and trimmed, the Joe Cupo says rain. And we do need the rain.

Katie's Kitchen restaurant at picturesque Snow Falls reopened April 16 and there was a large patronage at noon.

Harry Child, respiratory therapist from Stephens Memorial Hospital, called to check on Eveline Vatcher April 15. The oxygen man was also there as the tank he left the week before had a leak and it needed to be refilled or changed.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reidy, Tynsboro, Mass., came to their trailer for the long holiday weekend.

Did you all mark the date of May 9 on the calendar? That's the date for the bean hole bean supper and dance at West Summer Grange Hall to benefit the Heart and Cancer funds and Tri-Town Ambulance Service. Let's dance!

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

This past week before vacation was a busy one. The third grade is making a patchwork quilt out of construction paper. This is an art project which involves geometric designs. They are colorful and fun! Easter decorations and Easter egg hunts occurred in various fashions. While Mrs. Edmunds' and Mrs. Alexander's classes were gathered together for a story, the Easter bunny hid candy eggs in their classrooms. Mr. Van Nest's 2nd graders' painted eggs were found all over the playground, hidden by some helpful Easter bunnies.

Another surprise for the whole school was the performance of The Prince and the Pauper, presented by the Robin Hood Players, a national touring company based in Phoenix, Ariz. All grades were entertained by this great classic. In addition to the professional actors, Joshua Dunham and Jason Eastman of the 2nd grade made fine castle guards.

Grades K-4 have many children participating in the Ronald McDonald Read-A-Thon, a program to raise money for the Reading is Fundamental program. Grade 4 has spent one vacation day with the annual trip to the Shrine Circus sponsored by the Oxford County Shrine Club. This is another one of the memorable field trips that will be appreciated for years to come.

Classes are beginning to review concepts taught throughout the year in anticipation of the SRA Achievement Tests that will be given during the week of May 4. We hope the chicken pox virus will have disappeared by then and that attendance will be 100 percent.

Grades 4, 5, and 6, are preparing for the science fair. The projects will be on display and judged in the gymnasium the afternoon of Friday, May 8. On May 15,

Smoking cessation group

A smoking cessation program will be held at the Bethel Area Health center starting on April 30, at 7 p.m. The clinic will run from 7-8 on the evenings of Thursday, April 30, an introduction to the program, and will then be held on three evenings the following week: Monday, May 4, Tuesday, May 5, and Thursday, May 7. These evenings will be in preparation for quitting smoking entirely the following week. Programs will be held on Monday, May 11, Wednesday, May 13, and Thursday, May 14, with support group meetings as needed on a weekly basis thereafter.

Each year 1,800 Maine citizens die from smoking related illnesses and each smoking death shortens the life span by an average of 13 years. Let's stop the carnage!

The 5th and 6th grade winners will be attend the district science fair in Norway. Next week, on April 30, our children will be enjoying a presentation of the Potato Garden Puppet Theater. There will be two shows. One for the younger children and one for the older grades. Nancy Nye's stories are in the form of folk art theater, featuring a hand puppet show, along with other handmade story worlds. Her desire is to inspire children to experiment with their own stories and she uses materials that children could find at home and use for props. Her program is a blend of both original stories and "old beauties." We are looking forward to Ms. Nye's program.

During vacation week many West Paris students are participating in a contest sponsored by Avis Ellingwood and the West Paris Library. The younger children are bringing in their favorite stuffed animal and the older boys and girls are writing about their favorite pets. Prizes will be awarded and we are all wondering what they will be.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, is endeavoring to bring frequently to you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

When I was a boy at home, I recall a poem that Mother often quoted. All I can remember is one verse, and perhaps not that in its exactness. As I recall, the poem went something like this:

"I love you mother," said little John,
Then forgetting his work, his cap went on
And out he went to the garden to swing,
Leaving his mother, the wood to bring.

This I believe, was the first verse of the poem. I continued on for several more verses, each using a child's name and each proclaiming the child's love for his mother, but each going on, to in some way show that through her child's attitude or action they failed to display that love which they had proclaimed.

Until finally, towards the last of the poem, was proclaimed the love of the little girl, and went on in part like this:

"I love you Mother," said little Ann,
Today I'll help you all I can.
This verse continued to tell of how this little girl did as she had promised. She was polite and helpful all day long, doing what was asked of her and presumably even more.

And the poem ended with the children going to bed, still saying they loved their mother and ended with the question "of which one we thought loved their mother most?"

Undoubtedly they all did love their mother and loved her very much. Most all children, at least, love their mothers a very great deal because their mothers do so much for them.

There is no need to take time here to list the things a mother does for her children. We all know that a mother, to her children, is just about everything. But yet only one of this woman's children upheld in deed her proclamation of the love she had declared. Their love was not strong enough that they could deny self and forsake their desires, to do their mother's bidding.

I think, in a way, that this is our own reaction to our love of God. We proclaim our love of God, oh yes! He is our God, Our LORD, Saviour, Creator. All these things and more. "An ever present help in trouble," the scripture states. The one who can kiss our hurts and makes them all better, listen to our troubles, offer comforting words at the right time. Yes, We love God.

But we are all too often going to the garden to swing leaving the carrying of the wood to God.

As children we often took daisies, thinking of a boy or girl we especially liked, pulled the petals out one by one, saying he loves me, he loves me not, until the fate of our love was decided by the last petal. This is about as fickle as our love is of God. It could about as well be proven by pulling petals out of a daisy, as by counting our deeds.

I am quite certain God does not determine our love for him by the number of petals on daisies. And although we frequently fail to display this love, I'm sure God knows who loves him.

Joshua 23:11 (King James)—"Take good heed therefore unto yourselves that ye love the Lord your God."

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society
Here is an English scene—
"The house came into full view around a bend. I had no clear idea of its architecture, but I guessed that it would be at least three hundred years old. The golden tint of its stone glowed in the late sunlight; the windows were mullioned, heavily leaded and jutting out into jagged bays. Over them were heavy stone carvings, weathered by wind and rain, and the lower walls were half covered with the pointed leaves of creepers, already turning the color of flame. Up the short flight of steps the huge mahogany double doors, with a black lion's head as a knocker, gleamed in the late-afternoon light."

The last society program was on West Paris as presented by Milton Inman. We were delighted to have someone from that town as we have had speakers from Bethel and Greenwood already and certainly do not want to overlook any of our neighbors. Much thanks to Olive Davis, Esther Davis, and Lettie Brooks for arranging this month's program. We appreciate their efforts.

Donations last meeting came from Ruby Emery and Mansfield Packard.

The New England new vaudeville revue in Bethel, May 1

A delightful form of family entertainment will make its way to Bethel on Friday, May 1, at 7 p.m., when Benny and Denise Reehl bring their New England New Vaudeville Revue to Bingham Auditorium at Gould Academy. Formerly the Buckfield Leather 'n' Leather Traveling Variety Show, the Reehls are accomplished jugglers, character actors and mimers and have been working as a duo, performing and teaching, for the past 15 years. From the NBC Today Show to Yankee Magazine they have been consistently recognized as being the forefront of the revival of vaudeville, an intrinsically American theater tradition. Combining spontaneity, originality and versatility, the "new" vaudevillians represent an alternate form of theater that has been growing steadily since the late 1960s. Performances all over New England at a variety of locations and have a large appeal to family audiences. Joining the Reehls for this show will be David Needell of Peaks Island. David is an internationally known storyteller, puppeteer and mime. His personal style of theater includes stories from Thurber, the sad lament of a female mosquito and an Indian legend presented through shadow images, to name a few. A unique and talented performer, David Needell is a treat for all ages.

This show has something for everyone and is being presented by the Mahoning Arts Council, a non-profit organization located in Bethel, dedicated to bringing quality entertainment to Western Maine. The Friday, May 1, performance will start at 7 p.m. Tickets are $3 for adults, $1 for senior citizens, and $1 for students. For more information call 824-4274.

Brownies entertain at Bethel meal site

Girl Scout Brownies Toot Chaudhourn, Lydia Grover, Martha Grover and Mindy Colley, of Troop #155, served as hostesses to the senior citizens at Tuesday's lunch at the Bethel meal site in the United Methodist Church dining room. Each diner was given a complimentary Easter basket favor, made by the members of the troop, who also served individual dinners to the 24 senior citizens and entertained them with several delightful songs. The presence of the young people, who had their picnic lunch after their tasks were completed, added a bright touch to the day.

There are 19 members in Troop #155 who are working to achieve their Girl Scout Excellence Awards. Leslie Cooley is Leader and Nancy Grover is Assistant Leader. Jennie Cooley, a Junior Girl Scout, joined the group with a helping hand.

Another Brownie Troop, #597, in Bethel, also has 19 members and there is a waiting list of youngsters who need a Leader to form another group.

KATHY SWAIN, OF BETHEL, WAS AMONG AWARD WINNERS at the University of Maine College of Life Sciences and Agriculture's annual scholarship banquet. Ms. Swain, a plant and soil science major, received the Plant Food Educational Society Scholarship based on an outstanding academic record and a career interest in agronomy. She was congratulated by Wallace Dunham, left, dean of the college, and Vaughn Holyoke, chairman of the UM Plant and Soil Sciences Department.
